Seven Students Honored, Voted ASN Membership

Alpha Sigma Nu released recently the names of seven juniors and seniors who are candidates for membership in the Loyola College chapter of the Jesuit National Honor Society. Initiation for the seven new members was held at Loyola on Saturday, May 15.

Those being received from the class of '55 are Richard J. Hunt, J. Raymond Gaeng, G. Lee Russo, T. Howland Sanks and Ralston B. Russell. Joseph A. Mead and Vernon J. Steedman are being received from the class of '54.

Honor Society

The Alpha Sigma Nu holds a high place among honorary fraternities because requirements for membership in it are strict. The three-fold basis for membership is "scholarship, loyalty and service". Members must be distinguished not only for their scholastic achievements but also for sacrifice of time and energy in leading extra-curricular activities.

Dick Hunt was this year's Junior Class president. He has been active on the Student Council and has served as president of the Math Club. Ray Gaeng is winding up a successful year at the helm of the Mask and Rapier Society. Active in many activities, Ray distinguished himself scholastically by winning last year's Murphy Medal for the highest average.

Russo, Russell Active

Lee Russo was president of this year's Biology Club and served on the Student Council. Lee has won the Ryan Gold Medal, the McNeal Silver Medal, and two Palma Nobilis Latin Medals. Giby Russell, in addition to his studies as a chemistry major has been active in the Chemistry Club and is president-elect of the Glee Club.

Hal Sanks has been active in countless school organizations. He has especially distinguished himself for his forensic prowess, gaining recognition for his ability in many debates and tournaments, and winning the regional finals of the Hearst Oratorical Contest. He is the new editor-in-chief of the GREYHOUND.

Seniors Receive Reward

Joe Mead needs no introduction. For he is leaving to Loyola an Evergreen Yearbook which will be an everlasting monument to his energy and devotion. Vern Steedman is known to all for his unswerving loyalty to both the College and the students while serving as president of the Student Council.

Founded in 1915

The Alpha Sigma Nu was founded in 1915 at Marquette University. It has spread until today it has chapters in Jesuit colleges and universities throughout the United States. The Loyola College Chapter was founded in 1941.

Loyola is sending two delegates to the National Council's convention to be held on September 9-10. They are Bruce Alderman and Dick Hunt.

For twelve years he has held the post of President of the National League of Distilled Spirits

Mr. Felix V. Goldsborough Rectifiers, Inc., and, during the last war, was recognized by the War Department for his outstanding contribution to the war effort through the manufacture of alcohol. Mr. Goldsborough has proven himself to be an exemplary Catholic layman, generously contributing

Hon. Herbert R. O'Connor to Catholic activities, and also interested in the promotion of Catholic ideals.

President's Medal to Irr

The President's Medal will be awarded this year to Mr. Henry P. Irr, Chairman of the Advisory Council of Loyola College, and president of the Baltimore Federal Savings and Loan Association.

At 9 o'clock on the morning of June 6, the Baccalaureate Mass will be celebrated by the Very Reverend Thomas J. Murray, S.J., President, in the Alumni Memorial Chapel of Our Lady of Evergreen. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Neil J. Gargan, S.J., the Director of the Loyola-on-the-Potomac Retreat House.

Seniors Plan Farewells, Set Week Of Festivities

One week from this coming Sunday, the graduating class of 1954 will begin its traditional Senior Week, consisting of seven hectic days jammed with dinners, dances and parties. Hugh Meade, chairman of Senior Week, in conjunction with the officers and members of the senior class, has been planning this week of farewell festivities for several months, and with the exception of a few final details, the schedule has been completed.

Communion Mass and Breakfast

The calendar of events will begin on Sunday, May 30, with the annual Mass and Communion Breakfast for the graduates. Mass will be said in the Student Chapel, and breakfast will be served in the cafeteria. The Rev. Gustav Weigel, S.J., of Woodstock College has accepted an invitation to be guest speaker.

Faculty-Senior Dinner

Tuesday evening, June 1, will find the seniors enjoying a Dixieland Dance from 9-1 at the American Legion Hall of Hamilton Post No. 20. The music for this occasion will be supplied by John Murphy's aggregation. The following evening, there will be a Faculty-Senior dinner at 5:30 P.M. in the faculty house. An informal gathering will be held after the meal at which seniors and faculty may reminisce about the happenings of the last four years at the college.

Graduation Dance Friday

The annual Senior Banquet is scheduled for Thursday, June 3, at Marty Welsh's, commonly known as Marty's. The dinner and speeches will last from 6 to approximately 9:30 P.M. Dr. John V. Walsh, former history professor at Loyola College, will be the principal speaker. On Friday, June 4, the Graduation Dance will be held from 9-1 at Cameo Hall on the Harford Road.

Hicken Receives Sodality Award

The Junior Sodality Award to the Senior most deserving for his interest and participation in school activities was awarded at the annual Queen's Ball to William J. Hicken.

Hicken, President of the campus chapter of Tau Kappa Alpha, public speaking fraternity; and Vice-President of the Bellarmine Debating Society, was chosen by a special committee of the Faculty.

Loyola Expeditionary Team To Go To Faroes

Improved data for guided missile research may come as the result of an expedition in which Loyola College is taking part this summer. The expedition, jointly sponsored by the Air Force and the American Geographical Society, is going to send fifteen observation teams to widely scattered points on the globe in order to observe an eclipse of the sun scheduled for June 30.

Northern Destination

The Faroe Islands are the destination of the observation team from Loyola College. The Faroes are a tiny cluster of twenty-one rugged, rockbound islands in the Norwegian Sea between Iceland and the Shetlands which lie off the coast of northern Scotland.

Four men will make up the Loyola College team. Father Edward Hauber, S.J. will lead the expedition and work as a geodesist at the observation site. Father Vincent Beatty, S.J. will keep all the records of the eclipse. Along as radio operators will be graduating senior Ben Frederick and sophomore John Tormey.

Nearly a third of the world's population will be able to witness total or partial phases of the eclipse. The moon's shadow will first touch the earth at sunrise of June 30 in northeastern Nebraska and then rush over the globe at a speed of over three thousand miles per hour. The eighty mile wide path of totality will sweep up across northeastern Canada, over the southern tip of Greenland, the Faroes, Norway, Sweden, the U.S.S.R., and Iran. A black sun will set just beyond the Khyber Pass. Early rising Baltimoreans will see a partial eclipse on the morning of the thirtieth. The Loyola scientists will see the full eclipse at high noon.

Eclipse on June 30

There will be fifteen observation stations located along the eight thousand mile eclipse path. Seventy-four scientists from a number of universities and observatories will man these locations. Participating along with Loyola will be such institutions as Ohio State, Carnegie Tech, Yale Observatory, and Swarthmore. The June 30 eclipse study, costing over $250,000, will be the most thorough ever made.

The reason for this great effort is that there will not be another total eclipse spanning North America and Europe until the year 2151.

The Loyola group is scheduled to leave Baltimore on June 2. They will proceed to Westover Field where they will be flown by the Military Air Transport Service to Iceland. It is impossible for planes to land on the rocky Faroes, so the group will have to travel by boat from Iceland to Torshavn, the capital of the Faroes. Thence they will proceed to the tiny island of Sudero, where they will set up the observation post.

Fast Work Ahead

When the eclipse arrives, the Loyola scientists will have to work rapidly. For the actual eclipse observations must be made in little more than five minutes. They will be observing with a highly sensitive photoelectric device. The photometer was first used for eclipse observation by Theodore Wulf, S.J. in 1905. Since then it has been developed until brought to its present perfection by Fr. Francis Heyden, S.J. of the Georgetown Observatory. The device records the exact minute that the eclipse reaches totality. The device is unique in that it can be used even on an overcast day. This is good because the Faroe Islands have a damp, cloudy climate and seldom see the sun.

Father Hauber states that the expedition group will be returning to the States around July 20. Because of boat schedules the group will have to travel to Copenhagen, Denmark to catch the Air Transport Service Plane home.

Durkan To Edit '55 Yearbook

Joe DeSantis, President of the Class of '55, has announced that Jim Durkan will be Editor-in-Chief of the Evergreen Annual for the coming year. Dick Hunt will be Business Manager and Ken Schertle will be in charge of photography.

Jim Durkan has already consulted several printers to get estimates on the cost of the proposed yearbook. Plans for layout and pictures are already under way, and the editors of the various sections will garner material over the summer in order that a definite plan for each section will be completed by September.

Others selected for the staff so far are Giby Russell, Lee Russo, Ferd Mainolfi, Jay Foley, Joe Touchton, Marty Riley, Jim Long, Skip DeMarco, and Connie Lanzi.

Players Elect New Officers

The Mask and Rapier Society closed the curtain on its last act Monday afternoon, May 10th, by holding its annual election of officers and discussing plans for the following year.

Before bowing out officially, Ray Gaeng, the retiring president of the Mask and Rapier Society, expressed his sincere appreciation to all those who helped make the year a dramatic success. After thanking the thespian talent, he then proceeded to pay particular tribute to the "men who worked behind the scenes" throughout the year, referring to Ben Frederick, Jim McNamara, Joe Young, Al Sullivan, and Joe Farrell. Special tributes were paid to Fr. Scanlan, the Society's moderator, and to Mr. John Toland, the director.

Election of Officers

The formalities having been concluded, election of officers for the following year was then conducted by Bruce Alderman of the Student Council Election's Committee. By an unanimous vote, John Kuhn, the Society's Treasurer for the past year, was elected to the presidency of the Society, and Paul Shields moved up from the secretarial duties to take over the duties of the Vice-President. Filling the remaining offices were Jim Quimper and Jim Lombardi who became the Society's Secretary and Treasurer, respectively.

Annual Banquet

Before the meeting officially came to an end, Father Scanlan appealed to the appetites of the hungry actors by announcing the awaited approval of a Mask and Rapier Banquet to be held on May 26 at Marty Welsh's Restaurant. Having finished its course, the meeting closed with a prayer.

Rifle Range Added To School Facilities

Loyola College recently opened one of the finest rifle ranges in the state. The new modern cinder-block structure is located on the east side of the gymnasium and can be approached either by the back road or through the outdoor basketball court. Boasting the best in soundproofing and lighting, the range promises to give the college a new and interesting sport for those not inclined to other athletic endeavors.

Prior to the opening of the range, the Rifle Team has been practicing at night at the neighboring Hopkins range but, with the new range on the campus, Sergeant Geckle anticipates a marked rise in the scores of the members. The Rifle Team has been considering a "turkey shoot" open to the entire student body, with cash prizes for the highest score.

Clubs and Activities

● Physics Academy

The Angelo Secchi Physics Academy will conclude one of its most successful years with a trip to the annual meeting of the American Physical Society in Washington, D. C.

This meeting will consist essentially of the presentation of a series of abstracts by the top physicists of the country. These papers are carefully picked from thousands that are submitted by physicists who are actively engaged in research and teaching.

At a recent meeting of the Academy the annual election of new officers was held. Walt Seibyl was elected president and Bob Lautmann secretary. Both newly elected officers have been active members of the club and are looking forward to another successful year.

In addition to the work of the newly formed Sodality Union and on the Easter Party for orphans at St. Elizabeth's, the Sodality has been sponsoring Mass devotions for the students every afternoon. These devotions have featured daily talks on some feature of the life of Our Lady, and commenced with the recitation of the Rosary.

Mo Reeder Leaves 'Hound Post for Medical School

This last in the series of articles about outstanding students on campus concerns the most controversial individual of the entire lot. It is most unusual for the subject of this article to be the object of a journalistic endeavor instead of the man behind the typewriter. This is a case of an author turned critic.

Retiring Editor

Maurice Reeder is the retiring editor of the GREYHOUND. His association with the school paper has extended over four years. During that time he has held the positions of reporter, page editor, associate editor, and this past year, editor-in-chief. For these past four years, he has banged out enough copy to cover the chapel ceiling. Now he intends to sit back, no longer plagued by the picayune wants of a fickle following, and survey the fruits of his journalistic successors with the air of an amused on-looker and critic.

Loyola High Graduate

Like many in this year's senior class, "Mo" graduated from Loyola High School in June, 1950. During his stay at Evergreen, Maurice has struggled courageously in the pre-med course. He has consistently placed in the upper third of his class, despite the fact that his average has tapered off since freshman year when he was in the upper tenth. Those who know him do not contribute this decline to a deterioration in mentality but to a shift of interests which can be directly attributed to a five foot-two inch, hazel-eyed blonde senior at the adjoining institution of higher learning.

Possible "Doctorate"

This attachment to the fair maiden has also occasioned an attachment to her alma mater. During the past year, "Mo" has spent considerable time in the biology labs at NDM, acting as a general ambassador of good will. Our hero has led us to believe that he is in line for an honorary doctorate from his adopted alma mater in addition to the sheepskin he will receive from Loyola.

Those who have ever entered into the sacred cloister of the GREYHOUND office and have observed the frenzied activity which occurs there would certainly believe that "Mo" has little time for anything else. However, such is not the case. In his junior year, he was vice president of the Chess Club. He is a member of "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," the Bellarmine Debating Society, the Mendel Club, and the Activities staff of the 1954 Yearbook.

Does "Mo" have time to relax? If he does not have time, he makes it. His philosophy of life contains three essential relaxational elements: sports, poker and Elaine. (We do not profess to know the correct order of preference, although Elaine might have something to say about that.)

Member of Pro-4

In keeping with the progressive ideas which he has always fostered, "Mo" is a member of Pro-4, a tightly knit little organization composed of Hicken, Mead, Otenasek and our aforementioned hero. This band of brothers is dedicated to the purpose of fun, frolic and friendliness plus anything else that suits their fancy.

This is not the last year of bookery for "Mo" since he is destined for greater things at the University of Maryland Medical School. These will be tough years ahead. We know that "Mo" will be equal to the task, but that does not deter us from wishing him the best of luck in his chosen career.

Debaters Win Prizes; Elect New Officers

Hal Sanks won the gold medal in the Jenkins Prize Debate held May 10 in the Student Lounge. Sanks and James O'Hara defended the affirmative while William Hicken and Richard Otenasek upheld the negative. The judges were the Rev. William Gibbons, S.J., Dr. Edward Kaltenbach and Mr. Frank Gallagher.

O'Hara Wins Lee

The previous Wednesday afternoon, sophomore James O'Hara won the gold medal offered for first place in the Lee Oratorical Contest. The judges for this contest were the Rev. John J. Scanlan, S.J., Dr. Harry Kirwin and Mr. Frank Christ. Others competing in the contest were Hal Sanks, Bruce Alderman, Paul Rogers and Robert Cadigan.

The annual elections and banquet of the Robert Bellarmine Debating Society were held at the House of Welsh on the evening of May 10. Twenty members of the society were in attendance together with Mr. Francis O. Voci, moderator, and Mr. Frank Gallagher, political science instructor and an alumni member of the debating society.

Tormey Elected

Officers for the coming year who were elected at this meeting were John Tormey, president; Hal Sanks, vice-president; Samuel Ady, treasurer; James O'Hara, secretary; Dan Mackey, manager of debate.

Senior members of the society who will not be around next year are Richard Otenasek, retiring president; William Hicken, retiring vice-president; Bruce Alderman, retiring secretary.

110 Take Part In Tau Kappa Alpha Tourney

The fourth annual TKA forensic tournament was held on Saturday, May 8, here at Loyola College. The purpose of the tournament is to foster public speaking among the high-school students of the Baltimore Area. Judging by the 110 participants who represented 13 Baltimore high schools, both public and private, the tournament was certainly a success.

The Winners

After close races in the oratorical section, Gloria Tuggle of Dunbar High School was victorious. Phil Flynn of Loyola High School placed second and Joe Philibert of St. Joe placed third. In an equally close battle in the extemporaneous contest Joan Lee Jackson of Seton placed first with Joe Philibert of St. Joe, second and Pat Hurtt of Catholic High, third. All six winners received trophies while all those who reached the finals, although they did not place among the first three in either section, received certificates of merit.

Dunbar Places First

The tournament, well coordinated by Bill Hicken, president of TKA, proceeded smoothly all afternoon. At the end of the day's activities, Dunbar High School, with an accumulated total of 13 points, had wrestled the large circulating trophy from last year's champions, Loyola High School. St. Joe and Loyola were a very close second with 12 points, while Seton had 10 points, and Catholic High, 5 points. Other schools participating were Towson Catholic High School, Calvert Hall, Institute of Notre Dame, Notre Dame of Maryland, Trinity Preparatory (Ilchester), City College, Kenwood High School and McDonogh.

TKA wishes to thank the members of the faculty who were acting as judges, and also the members of the student body, especially of the Debating Society, who acted as chairmen.

Reception of New Members

At an executive meeting of the TKA Forensic Fraternity, 3 new members were chosen for entrance into the Society, Sam Ady, Jim O'Hara and John Tormey. On Friday night, May 28, initiation for these members for the coming year will be held.

TKA has chapters in leading colleges and universities throughout the country. The Loyola chapter is the only one in Maryland.

Editorials

First Words

This issue of THE GREYHOUND marks the beginning of a new editorial staff, and we feel it is most fitting that the first words uttered in this column should be an expression of sincere congratulations to Mo Reeder and his staff of graduating seniors. Despite the attendant difficulties, Mo never missed a publication date and never put out an issue that was not a credit to the GREYHOUND tradition. Many hours of hard work—many more than most people would expect—were given, without complaint, by Mo Reeder, Dick Otenasek, Bill Hicken, Bo Menton and all the other retiring staff members.

I fear that it is impossible to impress on the student body just how much credit our retiring editor deserves. In an attempt to do so, we have published on the preceding page a feature on Mo Reeder. May the new staff live up to the standards so faithfully upheld during the past ten issues by Mo Reeder and company!

To the Class of '54

Barring unforeseen difficulties (exam results), on June 6 ninety Loyola seniors will pass from out the hallowed halls of Evergreen and into the life beyond the sheepskin. Whatever they may do individually after they leave here, they can always look back on their four years at Loyola with the unusual pride that comes with achievement. For the Class of '54 has had the rare combination of able leadership and willing workers. They have displayed an amount of talent, unity and spirit that few other classes past or present could claim. They have published a yearbook that will be hard to equal; by general consensus of opinion, their Senior Prom was one of the best sponsored by a senior class for some time; they have supported the athletic program, both intramural and intercollegiate; they have provided definite leadership in the Student Council; they have been the most active leaders and the hardest workers in all activities, not only in their senior year but throughout their tenure in the college. The Class of '54 has set an example and laid down a challenge for the succeeding classes.

Their graduation from Loyola will, without doubt, be a noticeable loss. On behalf of the underclassmen, THE GREYHOUND would like to extend the heartiest congratulations and wishes for success and the best of luck to each and every member of the Class of '54.

A New, Square, Fair Deal

This editorial column thus far has appeared to be a series of bouquets, albeit well deserved. We do not however guarantee that it will continue to be such. The ultimate aims of THE GREYHOUND do not change. The emphasis, however, may shift in regard to particulars. Therefore, we wish to explicitly state our policies for the coming year.

The Good Neighbor Policy, with regard to our friends both up the street and down.

The Closed Door Policy, in respect to those who think that THE GREYHOUND office is the Science Building's cafeteria.

The Big Stick Policy for those who refuse to participate in school activities and who feel they owe the College nothing.

A Propaganda Policy to give each society, team or club every bit of publicity it desires and deserves.

A Policy of Non-Interference in little wars or squabbles that are none of our business.

The Policy of the Monroe Doctrine when it comes to students' rights and privileges.

With the above policies in mind, we enter our tenure in the editorship of THE GREYHOUND. If at any time during the coming year we fail to follow these policies, we wish that the student body would bring it to our attention. Furthermore, any constructive criticisms or suggestions from the students will be greatly appreciated by the editor at any time.

Salute To Vandervort

This year marks the departure of Colonel Ralph E. Vandervort from Loyola. Although at the College for only two years, the colonel initiated the ROTC course in the curriculum and soon molded the unit into a well drilled and spirited group. Aside from the military, the colonel's interests varied from attendance at basketball games (both home and away) to the job of moderator of the Student Council. His enthusiasm carried over to the establishment of a Boosters Club and various organizations in the military vein. His next assignment will be attendance at the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth.

During a recent dinner, given to honor Colonel Vandervort by the Cadet Officers, he was presented with a gold watch in token of appreciation for his service to the ROTC. We know that the sentiments expressed at that supper and spiritually affixed to the timepiece will be considered the sentiments of all the students.

McGrain Wails As US Assails Former Editor

by Pvt. John W. McGrain, Jr.
(Former Editor of THE GREYHOUND)

Come graduation day the alleged "Friends and neighbors" of many seniors will commence sharpening their deadly postal cards for the open season. No doubt these gay young blades are slightly apprehensive of being raked up for cannon fodder or artillery alfalfa, but as an old R.A., let me tell you that there is nothing to fear. The Army is by no means what it was in the All Quiet on the Western Front days, or in the From Here to Eternity days, or even what it was seven months ago.

You too can Serve

Anybody can take the physical strain of army life these days. Some people did more walking as civilians than they did in basic training. Everything you hear about the army is at least 2/3 wrong. The needles don't hurt, K.P. can be easy, the food isn't half bad, and at times you're likely to have less work to do than when you labored part-time in the outside world. No matter what anyone tells you about the army, deny his major; but first beg his pardon.

Success is Possible

There are two modes of success in the army. One is to make lots of noise, and either make a terrible mess of everything, or do everything with Prussian efficiency and equal noise; either course will lead to promotion and success. Complete 100%, absolute, unbridled incompetence may lead to a commission. The second way is to remain completely anonymous; never make the acquaintance of your platoon sergeant. Never go near the orderly room. Drift along with the ebb and flow like a semi-invisible sea-nettle. If they know your name it's easier for those simpletons to put you to work.

Trivial Tyranny

In the army Il-Logic reigns officer of the day. The illogic of it all makes the college man feel that the army is too childish for adults and too adult for children. Most of the emphasis is on the Trivial. Unbuttoned buttons, broom straws on the floor, dust on the rafters—these are the sine qua non's of the army. It takes the mind of little time to shift gears from T. Aquinas and the business world to the study of the proper way to display a tooth brush.

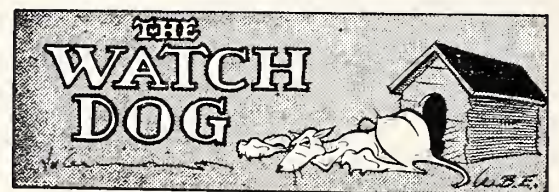

Illogically enough the army says you WILL (shall is the apt word for this grammatical construction) broom-scrub the building every day—even though all the scrubbing is rotting the floor at a very obvious rate. Every object WILL have a Nomenclature Tag attached to it, reading for example, "Nomenclature, 'Chair,' Cost $3.00." Such tags would possibly be found on a chair.

Be Consoled

But all in all the army is nothing to worry about. College men can be made into officers, clerks and technicians. I, for example, have learned a valuable trade that is always good for $85 per.

You will meet lots of wonderful people and learn to understand people of many races, sections, religions and philosophies. There's plenty of opportunity for fun and recreation. But you had better be ready with the consolation of philosophy for some of the heart breaks and maddening trivialities.

At the present moment college men will gain nothing by enlisting. Gentlemen, it will be the time of your life. Ten-Hut! Dus-Smised!

In lieu of the usual fol de ral that has been filling the column, the WATCHDOG, urged on by the spirit of good will, has decided to devote this final chapter to more aesthetic thoughts.

Let us examine the various types of homo sapiens who inhabit the campus region. They can be effectively broken down into four distinct groups. First there is the pseudo-student. This is the individual who goes to college for prestige. He is usually seen with a wake of wailing women beseeching him for attention. This lad can be discerned from the average individual because of the marked symmetry (squareness) of his mien. He flourishes at parties, on bar stools and particularly when asked the number of hearts he has broken. Appearance is generally casual (fashion-wise for sloppy) and he exudes an abundance of witty sayings gleaned from his companions.

The next species is the direct opposite of the former. The gentleman usually occupies a book-bounded corner in the library where he thinks deep thoughts of Ontology and Paradoxology. His posture closely resembles that of "The Thinker" (although better clothed) and a frown adorns his countenance more frequently than a smile. He is usually jeered (relative to size of the jeerer); professors consider this species a good student.

The third group is a compromise between the first two orders. This lad is singular by the abundance of caffeine his system can undergo. His most distinctive characteristic is the table upon which he doodles. Many think of him as well rounded (notably his mother) person. His jokes are old as threadbare, and as a conversationalist, he makes an excellent listener. The librarian gets a view of him on rainy days, and teachers find him attentive, except on Mondays. Others in the strata consider him a "ball of fire", but the fast pace of a class party leaves him mentally disheveled.

The final order of college men is probably the most representative of studentry in general. This personage is the politician. Here, good looks and a firm handshake offer the differentiating quality. He is seen at all the functions, usually with a girl you wished you had, and his cheery words of encouragement such as "chuck the old apple" and "atta boy" are symbols of his inherent enthusiasm. On graduation day this individual brings a suitable receptacle, usually a shopping bag, in which he collects service pins and embossed watches. This pattern of behavior continues through life and reaches its zenith when the president of the firm bestows a gold-leaf watch fob for fifty years "loyal" service.

Hard School of Experience Finds Stickmen Good Students

by Jeff Creamer

On May 5th the Lacrosse team traveled to Washington College. Their showing was somewhat disappointing since they lost by a score of 17 to 3. The combination of Howard to Leipzit proved fatal to the Greyhound cause. However, on the brighter side, Bob Strott, Loyola captain and sparkplug, poured in two goals. Jack Burke contributed the other.

'Crossmen Trounced

The Green and Grey stickmen ended their season on May 8th, going down to defeat at the hands of an agile and experienced Swarthmore team. The score was an overwhelming 25 to 3. After a quick start by Swarthmore, the Greyhounds apparently withered. Experience was the difference as it has been throughout the season. Breaking into the scoring column for the first time this season was Dick Blackshire. Bob Strott, playing his final game in a Loyola uniform came through with his usual good game by scoring two goals.

The team was riddled with injuries at the end of the season. The midfield and defense strength was at a minimum. Bob Baldwin was out with a bad leg. Both Fred Buchness and Paul Buckmaster played despite injuries. Since midfielder Bill Phillips was benched with a torn cartilage in his knee, freshman Jeff Creamer was sent into the lineup.

Future Brighter

Loss of manpower was responsible for the poor late-season showing. This loss also caused a lowering of morale. The team reached their peak early in the season and then slumped. No titles were expected of the stickmen, but they managed three victories and a near fourth, that being against a powerful R. P. I. squad. This season is more or less chalked off to experience. The outlook for the future is a great deal brighter than before. The team deserves a lot of credit.

Charlie Wenzel and his assistant, Joe Tydings did an excellent job of coaching throughout the season. More couldn't be expected of them. Also deserving credit is Bob Strott, the lone senior on the team. His loss both as a competitor and a captain will be greatly felt. Bob is presently awaiting a bid to the North-South All-Star game.

GYM JOTTINGS

by Bo Menton

By now, Lefty Reitz, Loyola's athletic head, probably has entered the results of Saturday's final athletic events and closed the record book for the 1953-54 sports year at Evergreen. It wasn't a good year as athletic seasons go at Loyola, but for 22 seniors it marked the end of their college playing days. Top quality and individual record-breaking performances highlighted a season which saw only two gold cups finding their way to the spacious showcase in that much used building on the northeast corner of the campus.

To recount these 100 odd engagements of the Hounds in the conference wars would be wasting time. You were there; you remember the wins, the setbacks, the thrills and the many disappointments. Yet it does seem necessary to go back through the year and mention, even so briefly, the play of the outgoing seniors. Although they have taken the green and grey colors of Loyola to the post for the final time, their many records and outstanding individual performances will remain for years to come in the annals of Greyhound sports. The class of '54 has given not a few athletes to the mythical Evergreen hall of fame.

Basketball enthusiasts won't easily forget the jump shots of Joel Hittleman as he broke the home court record with a 44 point output against Catholic U. Hittleman, a Fort Wayne draftee, must be considered for a berth on the all-time Loyola squad.

Before Lou McComas left the pool for the last time, he had amassed a total of 127 points, highest ever for a Hound swimmer.

On the mat Ned Callahan, a three letterman, and captain of two varsity teams, was unbeatable. Ned brought the heavyweight championship to Evergreen.

In the spring Joe Lacy was top man on the tennis courts for 3 seasons: during the winter months his set shot made him the second highest scorer in Basketball. When Joe picks up his diploma on June 6, the name of Lacy will be missing from the athletic scene for many years to come.

Don Pearson, Mason-Dixon Individual golf champion led a predominantly senior golf team to its seventh crown in eight years. Jim Hoeck, Gary Waldorf, and Vern Steedman along with Pearson were members of this championship squad.

High-jumper and sprinter John Benzing ended his college track days in the Mason-Dixon meet last Saturday. John's record speaks for itself. Other trackmen who have represented Loyola for the final time are high jumper and pole vaulter Harry Lentz, broad jumper Bob Heid, weightman Mick Voelkel, Bernie Weigman and Frank Pugh who ran the distance. Dick Ikena, a middle distance man and Alan Meehan who conquered polio to return to the Greyhound athlete scene.

Captain Bob Strott, a four year veteran, was the only senior on this year's edition of the stick team. Bob's hard ground shot was good enough to gain him high scoring honors.

When the basketball team takes the floor early next December, Captain Jerry Chadwick, Terry Ahearn, Jim Seidel and Dan Wheatley as well as Hittleman, Lacy and Benzing will certainly be missed. They didn't have a spectacular season, but they played with the typical Loyola fighting spirit, the most important thing after all.

And so the senior athletes of '54 pass in review; true, all were not champions, but all displayed sportsmanship and upheld the fine traditions established by Loyola athletes. They were gentlemen of Loyola on and off the field of play. Congratulations and best of luck as they prepare to enter the real game—the big game of life.

SNYDER and PEARSON STROKE COLLEGE TO SEVENTH M-D FLAG

by Tom Coyle

The Loyola College golf team won its seventh Mason-Dixon championship, with top honors going to Don Pearson. Dick Snyder, the Hounds first man, tied for second, while Jim Hoeck and Gary Waldorf finished sixth and nineteenth respectively. Pearson, this year's captain, and second man, fired two rounds of 77 to capture the medal, with a total of 154. Snyder, driving well from the tees, chipped in with an 84-78 for a score of 162. Winning the Mason-Dixon is nothing new to Pearson who has participated in match play for the last three years. Last year, Pearson placed third for the Green and Grey behind winner Bill Gross and runnerup Tony Pistorio, both of whom are now in the armed forces.

Western Maryland Second

Western Maryland, who pulled an upset on the Hounds earlier in the year finished a gaudy 39 strokes behind, to capture second place over Hopkins. Randolph-Macon had planned to enter a team this year, but when the four men arrived in Baltimore, they were informed that their clubs had been placed in the wrong bus. Their equipment was not here, but in Pittsburgh. The Randolph-Macon star, Wayne Jackson, borrowed clubs, shoes and a sweater, while his three team mates did nothing but watch Jackson start off fast, and manage to tie Dick Snyder for second.

Four Straight

This was the fourth straight year that the Hounds have won the championship. However, next year may prove to be different. Four of the six men on the team will graduate in June. These are, Pearson, Hoeck, Waldorf and Steedman. Only Snyder and Roach remain. It is evident therefore that if Loyola is to remain the perennial champ, more students, especially the underclassmen will have to take an interest in golf.

Congratulations should be extended to all of the seniors, especially Don Pearson, who by his consistent play and fine spirit has set a remarkable record.

Harry Lentz and Bo Menton, Retiring Commissioners of Intramural Athletics

Menton, Lentz to Retire As 'Mural Commissioners

To most of us here at Loyola, the title, Commissioners of Intramural athletics, brings a smile to our faces. In reality however, this job, no matter what title it goes under, entails a great deal of hard work and long hours for its holders. The two men who have it this year, Bo Menton and Harry Lentz, have given unhesitatingly of their time in order to make Loyola's intramural system what it is now.

Headaches

When Bo and Harry took over the job, which had been held by Pete Bamberger for the past two years, they knew about its headaches. Some of these are: trying to make up a double elimination schedule with only a limited amount of time with which to work; taking the beefs of the "Casey Stengels" who think that their team has been cheated; making up rules and setting up a satisfactory refereeing schedule.

All Around Athlete

Harry Lentz came by this interest in athletics naturally, for his father, Col. "Dutch" Lentz is director of athletics for the 2nd Army (Dutch, as director of athletics was instrumental in bringing both Joel Hittleman and Jerry Chadwick to Loyola). Harry came here from Poly, and in his first year, earned letters in freshman basketball, soccer and track. The last two sports, Harry played all four of his college years. He also wrestled in his junior year. Harry is a Business Major. He was married last summer and just recently, his wife presented him with a new baby boy.

St. Joe Grad

Bo Menton came to Loyola from Mt. St. Joe. On coming here, Bo took an immediate interest in sports. He wrote sports for THE GREYHOUND in all of his four years and was sports editor in the last two. He is also sports editor of the yearbook, following in the footsteps of his uncle Paul, who is the sports editor of a local daily paper. Bo was in charge of his class intramurals in sophomore and junior years. Off campus, Bo is a basketball and football referee for the Baltimore City Department of Recreation. Another of his jobs was that of recreational therapist at Spring Grove. He taught the patients tennis and softball. Some other of his extracurricular activities include, the Mendal Club and work on the senior prom, in which he was co-chairman. After graduation, Bo plans to enter Dental school but still to keep alive that active interest in sports.

Tennis Season Successful Three Players Graduate

By Joe Manz

Tomorrow, the tennis team travels to Washington and there takes on Catholic U. for the Mason-Dixon Championship. This will be the second meeting of the two clubs this year. Catholic won the first, 6-3.

GOOD SEASON

With a record of ten wins and two defeats, The Loyola netmen finished their season with the best record of any team representing the Green and Grey in intercollegiate competition this year. After bowing to last year's Mason-Dixon champions, Catholic U., in their opener, the Hounds won their next three Mason-Dixon matches from Towson Teachers, Mount Saint Mary's, and Western Maryland respectively. A strong Colgate team shut out the Loyola racqueteers, 9-0, for the only other defeat suffered by the Hounds this season. The Loyola netmen then defeated Washington College, Mount Saint Mary's, Towson Teachers, and American U. in Mason-Dixon Conference matches. In a non-conference match the Hounds defeated St. Peter's College from Jersey City by a 7-2 score. The Johns Hopkins netters gave the Hounds their hardest fought match of the season before Loyola finally triumphed by a 5-4 score. On May 12 the Loyola netmen battled Hopkins for a second time to decide the winner of the Northern division of the conference.

This match was played on the

Rebels Beat Plott; Harmon-Jacobsen Win

Last Wednesday, the Rambling Rebels downed the Freshman Olympians 2-1, in a thrill packed game. Pitching, as usual, was the decisive factor, as both Bernie Plott, of the Olympians and Tom Reynolds, of the Rebels chucked brilliant games. Plott struck out 14 while Reynolds allowed but 2 hits. The game was not won until the last inning when Joe Miko, with one out, hit a game winning home run. These same two teams played Thursday for the Intramural Championship.

Ken Jacobsen and Burch Harmon emerged victors in doubles tennis by beating Matt Arena and Joe Cain. This is the second straight year that the Harmon-Jacobsen tandem have won. The intramural volleyball title was won this year by the senior Ballarinas, as they downed the faculty team in two straight games.

Homewood campus. The Greyhounds won again, by the same score, 5-4.

Future looks bright

The Vince Colimore coached squad was led by Senior captain Joe Lacy, the number one player. Ranking 2, 3, and 4 on the team were Sophomores Waide Howley and Frank Dickson and Freshman Skippy Chard respectively. Other members of the squad were Ed Ellison, Mickey Mohler, Bill Sturm, and Dan Whiteford. With only Joe Lacy graduating from the first four players on the team, prospects for future Loyola success on the courts is bright.

Colbourn Stars As Track Year Closes

by Lou Ottenritter

This season, the track team had only a fair year in that they claimed only one win and one tie in five meets. The Hound track season opened on April 1, with a loss to Towson Teachers. After this were Western Maryland and a powerful Johns Hopkins team. The Green and Grey dropped both of these dual meets. Next came their first win, against the Shoremen of Washington College and then a tie with Mt. St. Mary's.

Throughout the year, Loyola's athletes broke only one record, that by co-captain Ed Colbourn in the 880 against Hopkins. Other creditable performances were turned in by Harry Lentz—in the shot put, John Benzing—in the dashes and high jump, and Frank Pugh—in the mile and two mile run.

Future Bright

Prospects for next year look very bright with the return of such veterans as Bob Cucuel, Joe DeSantis, and Dick Barranger and the very capable freshmen, Jim Vaeth, Dick Coyle, Dave Bryan and Dave Regester.

In the Mason-Dixon tournament this year, Loyola was represented by Jim Vaeth, in the 440 and 220 low hurdles, Ed Colbourn in the 880, John Benzing in the 100-yd. dashes and high jump, Harry Lentz, in the pole vault and shot put and Frank Pugh in the mile and two mile runs.

BASEBALL TEAM ENDS SEASON; DONOHUE DENTZ LEAD ATTACK

by Jim Greenwell

Perusing the latest baseball statistics released by the Hounds' official scorekeeper, Moe Sullivan, one finds Captain Jim Donohue leading the hit parade with a sensational .446 batting mark. The slugging keystone guardian compiled this lofty average by garnering 25 base knocks in 56 at-bats. Jim's production also includes three doubles, two triples, one home run and 21 runs batted in.

Dentz Produces

Right field and shortstop alternate, Ed Dentz can claim title to second place in the bingle business on the strength of 15 hits in 54 platter trips, good for a .302 average. Paul "Rabbit" Feild, batting .268, leads the fleet-footed Hounds with 13 stolen bases. Frosh twirler, Jack Benzing, leads the tossers with a 3-1 log.

Tough Loss

Ed Cox, although pitching excellent ball all the way, lost a tough 2-1 decision to Hopkins and Jim Clark, who stilled Loyola bats with three well spaced hits. This contest was played on May 4 at Evergreen.

Two days later the Reitzmen experienced their most productive day at the plate as they blasted Baltimore University pitching for a total of 23 base hits. The Greyhound attack featured Donohue's four hits, which included a long round tripper. Jerry McCarron, Jack Benzing and John Quinn, each contributed a trio of bingles during the free hitting 20 to 7 win. Benzing got credit for the victory by going the route and allowing seven Bee base knocks.

Bats Not Busy

Georgetown University shut out the locals 6-0 at Evergreen, May 8, in the first of the Hounds two intersectional clashes. Loyola threatened only once.

Villanova College's potent baseball aggregation, held hitless for seven innings by the slants of soph, Joe Mace, bristled forth with extra base power in the final two innings to conquer the Greyhounds 7-1, on May 11, at Evergreen.

Mace Falters

The Hounds put together a bunch of singles in the sixth to score Carrol Fitzgerald and knot the score at one all. Then the roof fell in as the Wildcats' power asserted itself, and reached Mace for six hits, including two tremendous home runs in the eighth and ninth frames. Lefty Don Sommers hurled four hit ball in recording the visitor's victory.

Closing out the season against the Jays of Hopkins, the Hounds gained a measure of revenge from their first beating, as they downed the Jays 7-5. This gave the Hounds a 7-10 record for the season.

GREYHOUND SPORTS

LOYOLA OF THE EAST

Running With The Hounds

By Jim Cole, Sports Editor

For the past two years, the GREYHOUND has been fortunate in having, as its sports editors, two such capable writers as Mike Ford and Bo Menton. As has been the custom in the past, the last issue will be taken over by the editors for the coming year. And so, continuing in our chase with the Hounds, I hope, after working with Mike and Bo for two years, that I can maintain their high standards of efficiency and sports know-how in both this column and in the rest of the sports section.

Athletic Banquet Tomorrow

At the athletic banquet, which will be held tomorrow, twenty-two seniors will receive their "Block L" scrolls. This award is given by the Athletic Association to those seniors who have participated in varsity athletics at Loyola. Among these are captains Bob Strott—lacrosse, Alan Meehan—track, Joe Lacy—tennis, and Don Pearson—golf. Charlie Eckman, referee at many of Loyola's basketball games, and now coach of the professional Fort Wayne Zollners, will be the guest speaker.

Spring Season

The spring season turned out not as well as could be expected for the Greyhounds of Loyola. In baseball, the team suffered at the start not only from a lack of pitching, but also from inexperience. The loss of two such pitchers as Bob Matthews and Lefty Tom Schmidt could not be overcome by the hitting of the Hound batsmen. However, Loyola rooters can resort to the old Dodger cry of, "wait 'til next year" for, barring unforeseen circumstances, the team will return, to the man.

Coach Charlie Wenzel's boys also took it on the chin for the season in Lacrosse; After getting off to a fast start, in which they defeated Williams, Western Maryland, Penn State, and nearly turned the trick against R.P.I., the Green and Grey withered against the big teams, Maryland and Johns Hopkins. Captain Bob Strott is the only senior on the team to graduate.

The track team, led by seniors Ed Colbourn, John Benzing and Harry Lentz had a losing spring season. These three men, together with Captain Al Meehan, will be some of the trackmen to receive their diplomas on June 6.

Golf and tennis were the bright spots of the spring season. The golf team paced by seniors Don Pearson, Vern Steedman and Gary Waldorf won the Mason-Dixon championship. This was a mild upset, for the Terrors of Western Maryland had defeated the Hounds in a dual match during the year and were favorites for the tournament. It was the seventh time in the last eight years that the Greyhound golfers have won.

Coach Vince Colimore's tennis team had an excellent year. Led by Joe Lacy, the Greyhounds went through the season with an 11 won, 2 lost record. In the Mason-Dixon, they had a 10-1 record, good enough for first place in the Northern Division. Joe Lacy, Ed Ellison and Dan Whiteford will be the seniors who will depart come June.

Mason-Dixon Conference Stronger

The Mason-Dixon Conference this year appeared much stronger than last. This goes not only for the spring sports but for winter and fall sports as well. In basketball, for example, Roanoke, Johns Hopkins, American U., St. Mary's, Baltimore U., and Loyola all had excellent teams. No one team made a runaway of the league race, and the team with the hot three day hand won the tournament. In baseball, the supposedly weaker nines in the league, Catholic U., Mt. St. Mary's, and Western Maryland, came up with top teams. The same can be said of tennis and golf. Catholic U., Johns Hopkins, Loyola and Washington College had their share of top tennis players while Loyola's almost perennial ownership of the links' crown was seriously threatened by Western Maryland. If this trend continues, Loyola will have to improve, especially in those sports which lose key seniors.
